

EMPLOYEE SPOTLIGHT

Susan Moore

This month's employee spotlight shines on Susan Moore, who came to Loretto Telecom 41 years ago.

While employed with Loretto Telecom, Moore, a 1978 graduate of Loretto High School, has assisted in several departments and served in multiple roles, including plant dispatcher, assistant plant supervisor and Adopt-A-School chairperson. Currently, she is the plant accountant. "Working with all my co-workers is great!" she says. "I have made a lot of friends through the years."

Moore and her husband, Jerry Wade, have been married for more than 31 years and live in Loretto, Tennessee. They have two sons, Brice, 29 — he lives with his wife, Jill, in Loretto — and Benjamin, 26, who lives in San Ramon, California.

Moore attends Sacred Heart Church in Loretto and serves as booth chair for the annual Fourth of July Picnic.

Supervisor Bridget Holden says, "Susan's years of service and various roles with Loretto Telecom have provided her with a wealth of knowledge of the telecommunications industry, which has been advantageous to her role in the accounting department."

General Manager Jason Shelton says, "In my short time working with Susan, I know that she is determined to turn in the best possible product she can. She is very thorough and detail-oriented — perfect traits for someone in accounting. She may not want to be, but I hope Susan is here for another 40-plus years!

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

PRESTON'S RESTAURANT

A tradition of great food

When you're in southern Lawrence County and have a taste for comfort food, particularly catfish, consider a stop by Preston's Restaurant in Leoma. The family-owned establishment has served the area since 2000. Or, the original Preston's Restaurant is just down the road and across the state line in Lexington, Alabama.

The restaurants are owned by Donnie Preston. His family, including his mother, Sandy, help to operate them. The menu offers salads, sandwiches, steaks and chicken. But the specialty is their blackened catfish fillet.

"Our business could not succeed without Loretto Telecom's quality, dependable service. Being able to call in your takeout orders or just call in to see what is on the menu is an absolute must in the restaurant business," Preston says.

His brother, Jason Preston, agrees. "Loretto Telecom employees are also familiar faces at our restaurants, and we appreciate their support," he says.

Loretto Telecom appreciates the continued business of Preston's Restaurant, as well as their families' patronage. The company looks forward to assisting with all of the restaurant's communication needs.

- WHERE: Visit Preston's Restaurant at 2575 Highway 43 S. in Leoma, Tennessee, or at 11360 Highway 101 in Lexington, Alabama.
- DETAILS: The Leoma location is open for lunch and dinner from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. The Lexington location is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner from 6:30 a.m.-9 p.m. Both locations are closed on Sundays to allow their employees time to spend with family and attend church.
